EQUITY SOCIETY'S POSITION DEFINED.

Where A. S. of E. is Strongest no Violence Occurs.

President C. M. Barnett Ably Defends Society of Which he is the Head.

The following letter was sent to Hon. James P. Gregory, President of the Louisville Law and Order League accompanied by request that he have it read at the mass meeting held in Louisville last Sunday. It was not produced then and was given to the daily press Monday.

Hon. James P. Gregory, President Law & Order League, Louisville, Ky. Dear Sir:—In view of the fact that your organization is to hold a mass meeting in the City to-morrow afternoon, which I am unable to attend, and owing to the fact that the American Society of Equity, of which I have the honor to be the National President, has been made a target for abuse and misrepresentation, because of recent lawlessness in our State, I desire to submit, through you, to the meeting, a frank statement which should set our Society right with all fair minded persons.

This criticism of our Society arises from the fact that persons are misinformed as to the true situation, or from a wilful attempt to discredit it and its purposes.

The American Society of Equity is organized and chartered under the laws of Indiana, for charitable and educational purposes. It has a membership in forty (40) states and territories in the Union, being especially strong in the great wheat section of the North-west. In Kentucky, as will be seen from the official report of the National Secretary which was submitted to the National union held in Indianapolis last October, the membership the first of January this year, in good standing, was 18,049. The highest membership ever enjoyed by the Society in the State, as shown by the same report which is appended hereto and made a part of this letter, was 27,791.

There are 923 local unions each acting under a charter from the National Headquarters at Indianapolis. The 18,049 members are distributed over seventy-one (71) counties in only thirty-six (36) of which are strong enough to have a county organization, or county union, as will be seen by figure immediately opposite the counties representing number of unions. Forty-eight (48) counties in Kentucky have no members at all. These are in the mountains and in that part of the State known as the "Black Patch" and occupied by the Planters Protective Association. In thirty-two counties the membership is less than one hundred. In fourteen others it is less than three hundred. In the counties covered by the Burley Association we have about 7000 members, while the Burley Association claims over 30,000. In the Planters Protective Association territory, lying along the western borders of Kentucky and covering some territory in Tennessee, we have no membership while that organization claims 40,000 members.

In the stemming district our membership is about 3000, while the number of persons pooling in that locality will probably exceed 20,000. The Green River District has an Equity membership of about 6000, and probably not many more than that number pool their tobacco. It will be seen that the four tobacco associations contain about 100,000 adherents. Six times as many membership of the Society of Equity. Only one of these tobacco associations, the Green River, acts through this Society. It has no control or connection with the others, except as individual members of locals may pool with them. This Society has no control over the Boards of those societies and can not say to the Burley people you shall or shall not raise a crop or when they shall sell their pooled tobacco. These associations have their ownboards of control some of whom may be members of this Society. I do not think President Lebus, is a member. Nor do I think Mr. Hawkins, who recently wrote the card which caused so much comment, is a member of our Society. Simply pooling a crop of tobacco with one of the tobacco associations, or signing an agreement not to raise a crop, does not give membership in the Society of Equity, although the daily papers, the press dispatches and almost everyone not a member has treated it as such.

To become a member one must either sign as a charter member or have his application passed on by a local union, after paying a membership fee. He must pay yearly dues, or lose his membership. These local unions act under a constitution and by-laws. They meet, usually in the country school houses, or churches once a week or once a month. The meetings are open to the public. No pass words are used and almost invariably they are attended by the ladies, the wives, mothers

YOUNG MAN'S BODY FOUND IN ROUGH CREEK.

Death Resulted From Blow De-cided Corenors Jury.

Wednesday afternoon while on the creek near Black Hocker's Bluff, about four miles north east of Hartford, Horace Smith, William Lake and another gentleman whose name was not learned, found the body of a young man which has been identified as that of Estil St. Clair, floating in the creek.

They at once notified Judge W. B. Taylor, at Hartford, and as soon as the notice was received, Mr. A. D. White and others left in Mr. White's gasoline launch to bring the body to Hartford. They arrived with the body about four o'clock p. m. Wednesday, and the following jury, W. W. Firtle, C. P. Keown, Dr. T. D. Renfrow, M. W. Barnard, W. A. Brown, J. T. Hudson, Ashford Mills, Bob Davis, J. K. Alvy, Wayne Ellis and Sam Ellis, after examination of the body returned the following verdict: We, the jury believe the unknown deceased came to his death by a blow on the mouth by some hard substance unknown to us.

The body was at once placed in a coffin and carried to the almshouse cemetery and interred. There was nothing on the body, except clothing and a pocketbook from which identification could be established, and until late in the evening after the body had been buried no one who had learned of the finding thereof had any idea who it was. Finally Steve Grigsby, after close examination of the pocketbook found on the body, decided it was the property of Estil St. Clair, and recalling his dress which consisted of a blue sweater, jumper, overcoat and yellow overalls, he was fully satisfied that it is that of young St. Clair.

About six weeks ago young Mr. Grigsby with a number of other men, including young St. Clair, left here on sawlogs being run by Mr. A. J. Williams to Evansville. On reaching Calhoun young St. Clair was not further needed and started on his return home, before leaving young Grigsby, he told him that he was coming back to Livermore and take the train there for Owensboro, and from Owensboro he intended coming back to his home at Dundee.

It is rumored, how true we are unable to state, that young St. Clair on reaching Owensboro, found some of Mr. Joe Funk's folks there with tobacco and came back with them to their home near Taffy, and stayed all night leaving the next morning for his home at Dundee. This was about the first of March. How he received the blow that ended his life if the theory of the coroner's jury is correct, is unexplained, or if he was drowned that too is likewise unexplained.

After the partial identification by Mr. Grigsby, Mr. St. Clair's folks were notified at Dundee, and they reported that the boy was still missing but on leaving home he had told them that he was going west from Evansville, and that they had suffered no uneasiness about his failing to return. They came to Hartford yesterday morning however, and after hearing a full description of the body and the manner of dress they were thoroughly convinced that it was their brotther whose body had been found in the river.

His body was disinterred late yesterday afternoon, and three brothers who were present and several neighbors and friends who had known the young man, all declared the body to be that of Estil St. Clair. The body was conveyed to his old home at Dundee, where interment will be had to-day. A deep mystery shrouds the whole affair, and its solution will be anxiously awaited.

A LITTLE MORE TIME GIVEN DELINQUENTS.

Postmaster M. L. Heavrin, Hartford, Ky.

Dear Sir:—In view of the fact that many of our subscribers have requested that we grant further time in which for them to settle their arrearage subscription with us, we hereby ask that, if it be in your power as postmaster, to grant such time, you give us and our patrons a few weeks longer in which to clear up our subscription list.

Yours very truly,

HARTFORD REPUBLICAN.

Hartford, Ky., March 31, 1908.

In accordance with this request Mr. Heavrin has granted us and those in arrears a few weeks more time to settle up. Please show your appreciation of our efforts by paying promptly.

SUPPOSED THAT HE FELL FROM TRAIN

Lifeless Body of Young Man Found at McHenry.

Was No Doubt "Stealing" a Ride On Through Freight and Fell Off.

Near McHenry last Sunday morning a colored man who had been to the house of a neighbor to sit up with sick folks, while crossing the I. C. railroad track near the store of Brown Mercantile Co., discovered the lifeless form of a man. The colored fellow was too scared to investigate his find, but went at once to secure aid. Other parties were summoned and investigations showed the dead body to be that of a young man or boy about sixteen years of age.

Physical examination showed that his neck was broken, and his position when found led the people to believe that the boy had fallen from the train. There was absolutely nothing on his person by which he could be identified and his name learned. He carried a small purse, in which were crumpled a few notes of "college script," used for money in transactions at business schools. Not a cent of money was in the purse. On the finger of one hand he wore a brass ring with the setting gone.

Judge Taylor was at once notified and arrived on the scene about 10 o'clock, summoned a jury and held an inquest. There was no evidence of a satisfactory character that in any manner showed how death resulted. The only evidence that in any way determined the cause of death was given by two miners who came out of the mines about 12 o'clock Saturday night while the fast freight train was standing on the track at McHenry. They stated that two boys who were walking along by the side of the train told them that one of their companions had fallen off the train just above there, and told them if they saw him for them to tell him that they (the boys) had gone on South, and for him to come on. This was all the evidence and being heard say, the jury returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury, find the unidentified boy, supposed to be about 15 years old, found in a ditch by the I. C. railroad, came to his death by unknown cause."

This was signed by the members of the jury, as follows: Guy Stateel, G. A. Ralph, D. W. Wakeland, J. W. Baker, R. T. Ross and J. M. Martin.

After the inquest the question of interment was discussed and it being the law that the county pay but $5.00 for coffin furnished by it, it was suggested that better burial casket be provided. A public subscription was taken among those present and in just a few minutes the kind-hearted people contributed $20. to supplement the $5.00 paid by the county. At the suggestion of Judge Taylor the body was held until Monday morning and the fact of the boy's death was telegraphed to Louisville and intervening points.

This proved to be a good idea, for on Sunday night a man named John Calahan arrived on a train from Louisville and identified the body as that of his brother, Charlie Calahan. He said their parents are residents of Louisville, at 1232 Zane street.

Monday's Louisville Times says of the unfortunate affair:

Word was received to-day by Peter Callahan, an employe of the L. and N. railroad, that the body of his fourteen-year-old son, Charles Callahan had been found at McHenry, Ky., beside the railroad tracks and would arrive in the city to-day.

The telegram was the first intimation that the family of young Callahan had of his whereabouts since he left his home at 1232 Zane street last Friday. Accompanied by three companions the lad left his home and it is said was last seen boarding a freight train on the Illinois Central railroad. It is said that the intention of the boys was to go to St. Louis, stopping at Central City City for a few days.

So the unfortunate tragedy is yet to some extent a mystery but it is the general belief that the two miners report of it is the truth of the matter.

4,000 HOGSHEADS OF EQUITY TOBACCO

From Green River District Sold, Which Leaves Only 2,000 Hogsheads of 1906 Crop.

Deals have been closed during the past week whereby the American Society of Equity of the Green River district has sold 4,000 hogsheads of the 1906 crop of tobacco through the Louisville Tobacco warehouse company. The price paid is supposed to have been the prevailing market price of tobacco. The buyers were mostly independent dealers and manufacturers. About 200 hogsheads of the tobacco were secured by an English firm. It is also understood that a portion of the tobacco was secured by the Regie buyers.

This sale practically cleared up the remaining trash of the association about 2,000 hogsheads. The remainder of the tobacco sold was made up of leaf and lugs. The society now has in the Louisville warehouse about 2,000 hogsheads.

S. B. Lee, secretary of the society, stated that the prospects were very favorable for the sale of the remainder 2,000 hogsheads in Louisville. Probably half of this tobacco will be sold in the next few days.

It has not been definitely ascertained what counties tobacco this sale includes but Ohio county tobacco put up at Beaver Dam has been sold recently and Mr. Williams is about ready to begin paying out the money.

JUMPED IN BED WITH MAN AND WIFE.

Aroused Household of Del Sawyer Before Daylight By Ringing The Farm Bell.

'Gene Moore, a negro who resides on the farm of Del Sawyer near the city, became crazed from some cause Sunday night, says the Henderson Journal. After acting in a very queer manner, he rushed over to another negro's home about 12 o'clock, and, entering the house, leaped into the bed where the man and his wife were asleep. He was made to make tracks at once by the frightened occupants. About 3 o'clock Monday morning Mr. Sawyer and his family were awakened by the ringing of the farm bell. On investigation, it was found that Moore was ringing it, claiming that breakfast was ready and he wished to arouse the family.

He continued to act in a queer way and Mr. Sawyer put him in a wagon and brought him to the city. Officer Bailey took charge of him, and the negro was tried by Judge Hart and adjudged insane. He will be sent to the asylum at Hopkinsville. Moore was arrested here a few days ago on the charge of drunkenness.

MINERS QUIT WORK WEDNESDAY

Operators in Bituminous Regions Failed to Renew.

Obstinacy of Operators May Lead To Big Tie Up In Five States.

The union miners in most of the soft coal fields of the country laid down their picks and shovels Wednesday night. Almost 250,000 of them stopped work in Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and some in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, West Virginia, and Kentucky.

The mining contracts under which they were working expired at midnight Wednesday and except in Central Pennsylvania and in the Indiana block coal district no new contracts have been made nor have the miners and operators yet entered into district agreements providing for the operation of the mines after April 1 pending agreement.

This is a possibility in the Indiana bituminous coal district in Illinois Michigan and West Virginia. The Indiana bituminous, Western Pennsylvania and Illinois miners and operators are in joint sessions at Terre Haute, Pittsburg and Springfield.

Technically the miners are out on strike but in reality they stopped work because the operators except in Indiana and Illinois, show no real intention of meeting and treating with them though no question of wage or principle is at stake.

J. Mitchell returned to Indianapolis Tuesday and is preparing to step out of office.

Vice President T. L. Lewis, who will succeed President Mitchell will announce his appointments when he takes office.

It is understood that Samuel Sexton, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal is to be retired and that possibly Chris Evans the official statistician, may be succeeded by a new appointee. Mr. Lewis, however has not given out any information concerning these changes.

Mr. Ryan the new Secretary-Treasurer, will bring with him from Illinois as his right-hand man Frank Hays, of Belleville.

Indiana coal miners and operators are in joint conference to endeavor to agree upon a wage scale. J. C. Kolsen of the operators, was selected as chairman. The miners' scale committee has not completed its work of formulating demands.

Both operators and miners believe that as soon as Vice President T. L. Lewis assumes the presidency of the United Mine Workers he will issue a call for an interstate conference to rehabilitate the interstate agreement.

Upon the request of the Scale Committee of the Kentucky Miners' Union the conference of the miners and operators adjourned last Friday afternoon until Tuesday, April 7, in order to allow the members of the committee to return to their homes and present the proposed scale for "shot firers" to their constituents. The sessions will reconvene at 9 o'clock Tuesday, April 7.

Until two years ago the bituminous coal mining wage of the country was based upon the agreement reached in the central competitive field, consisting of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Western Pennsylvania, and considered as a unit.

This system was broken two years ago, when President Mitchell signed a scale with Pittsburg operators, who agreed to pay the scale demanded after operators of other three States had refused, and the miners won their fight. In consequence, operators signed the scale individually throughout the country.

Since that time the miners have tried to get back the unit rule, or interstate agreement, but operators of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, after negotiations lasting all the past winter, have refused to meet in interstate convention with the miners.

As a last resort President Mitchell called the miners in national convention, and district settlements were authorized with the present wage scale as a minimum, and failing to agree by districts the miners were authorized to sign the present scale with operators individually.

West Virginia and Kentucky miners and operators will continue operations, it is believed, pending a settlement.

Destructive Fire.

The residence of Mrs. Sallie Thomas, occupied by herself and son, Estil, on Madison street, in East Hartford, was destroyed by fire last Sunday morning about 9 o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown. The flames were discovered by a neighbor while Mrs. Thomas was temporarily absent, and had gained such headway that nothing could be done to save the house or contents. The loss was total, with no insurance. Young Mr. Thomas had taken a nice $20 suit of clothes home only the night before and this was also lost in the flames.

Sympathetic citizens of Hartford immediately started a subscription paper for the relief of Mrs. Thomas, and to help erect a new home. Everybody contributed liberally as is always the case with our people, and the Methodist Sunday school voted to donate next Sunday's offerings to the unfortunate lady.

CALEB POWERS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Fever Unbroken and Prisoner is Losing Strength and Weight Daily.

Georgetown, Ky., March 30.—Friends of Caleb Powers are much alarmed over his condition, as he has gradually grown worse since the first press dispatches about his illness several days ago. His fever registered 101.2-5 at noon to-day and his pulse 86.

Weak and emaciated, a mere ghost of his former self Powers lies on his jail cot with his physician, Dr. J. E. Peck, in daily attendance. With no appetite and a disordered stomach, his vitality is giving way. Powers' friends are keeping a man with him day and night to administer his medicine and care for him. Dr. Peck to-day ordered all visitors barred except his brother-in-law W. H. Green, who has remained with him since the last trial.

FOR THE BUSY READER.

William J. Bryan says the Democratic banquet at Kansas City Monday night was the largest ever held in the United States.

Judge Redwine filed a petition for habeas corpus at Beattyville in an effort to secure bail for Beach Hargis, who killed his father, Judge James Hargis. The case will be heard at Jackson April 10.

The Marshall county grand jury yesterday returned eleven more indictments against alleged night riders making sixteen in all. These indictments are the result of the attack on negroes at Birmingham.

The Warner and Foraker bills for the restoration to duty of negro soldiers discharged without honor because of the affray at Brownsville, Tex., were defeated in the Senate Committee on Military Affairs by the votes of the five Democratic members who joined with the Republican opposition.

The time for sowing tobacco plants The time for sowing tobacco plant beds is about over and the leaders of the Burley Tobacco Society say that reports from the entire belt show that the plan to eliminate a crop this season is a success, and that but a small part of the usual crop will be planted.

The heavy rains have caused a flood in the rivers and creeks in Eastern and Central Kentucky. Three lives were lost in Mason county by the washing away of a house. Property was damaged to the extent of $75,000 at Maysville. Lexington was swept by a storm which flooded cellars and rendered 100 persons homeless. The Kentucky Licking and Big Sandy rivers are at flood tide and the timber loss will be heavy.

For lighting matches on J. Pierpont Morgan's doorstep Robert W. Fusholler, a seaman, was fined $1 in the night court of New York Monday night. Fusholler told a policeman, who found him on the financier's porch, that he was looking for the number. The butler, when summoned said the man had just been there applying for a job. In the man's pocket the police say they found a hypodermic syringe and a phial of morphine. Fusholler was arrested on the charge of disorderly conduct and promptly paid the $1 fine.

NEW STATE LAWS

Acts of the Late Legislature
Presented Here in Concise Form.

SOME OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

While Not So Many Laws Were Enacted as by Previous General Assembly, Some Acts Stand High.

Reorganization of the Kentucky School System Was One of the Measures of Large Importance.

Far-Reaching Action Was Taken Toward a Regulation of Tobacco Business in the State.

Among the Measures That Failed Were the County Option Bill and the Reapportionment Bill.

The Kentucky Legislature that adjourned on March 17th did not enact as many laws as its predecessor, but some of the laws are of vital importance. Chief among these are the following: Act abolishing the present school trustee system and establishing county boards to control the schools and teachers; act to prevent a man from selling his tobacco after he pools it; act appropriating $176,000 to complete the new Statehouse and maintain it; act appropriating $300,000 to the two Normal Schools and $200,000 to the State University; act putting poolrooms out of business; act giving state aid to all tuberculosis sanatoriums; act providing for a vote to annul the constitution so as to permit state aid to public road building; act authorizing warehousemen to commingle tobacco of like grades; act further regulating the employment of children in factories, and an act providing the tax penalty shall not go on until December 1 each year.

The bill to extend the county unit local option law to all counties in the state failed to pass, as did the bills to redistrict the senatorial and representative districts, and the bill requiring all buyers of tobacco to pay a license fee.

The governor vetoed a number of bills, the most important one being the Arnett bill exempting from taxation stock in foreign corporations owned by residents of Kentucky.

The total amount of all appropriation bills is about $1,325,000, and the session of sixty days cost about $90,000.

Governor Willson gave out a statement reciting at considerable length his reasons for vetoing several appropriation bills passed by the legislature. The principal bill vetoed was the measure appropriating $100,000 for a state tuberculosis sanatorium. Three or four other measures added considerably to the sum appropriated by the legislature.

HOUSE BILLS.

138. Shanks—Act changing time of holding circuit court in the Thirteenth district.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It is the great medicinal triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THIS IS PRINTED BY REQUEST

Recipe Easily Prepared and Many Swear by It.

Many of Our People Speak Well of This Prescription, Which Has Helped Them.

Mix the following by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our druggists.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the logged and inactive kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

The Scranton (Pa.) Times was first to print this remarkable prescription in October, of 1906, since when all the leading newspapers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities have made many announcements of it to their readers.

The Reasoning of Ants.

With its microscopic brain the ant has not the power of person to reason (said Mr. Henry Hill, at the London Institute, recently.) Experiments have proved that; but it is excessively imitative has marvelous power of adaptation and accomplishes all its remarkable work through the medium of "plastic instinct."

Call for Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Central meeting at Louisville Tuesday called a State Convention to meet in Louisville Wednesday May 6 at one o'clock P. M. to select four delegates from the State at large to the Chicago Convention at which a Republican candidate for President will be nominated. No attempt was made to pass resolutions endorsing Taft or Fairbanks for President, and the meeting was harmonious throughout. Louisville and Lexington were placed in nomination for the Convention, the former city being winner.

Following is the call and member of delegates each county is entitled to send to State and district conventions.

In accordance with established custom and in obedience to the rules governing the Republican organization of Kentucky and the official call of the Republican National Committee, the Republican State Central Committee of Kentucky now directs that a State convention of delegated representatives of the Republican party of Kentucky be held in the city of Louisville Ky., at 1 o'clock p. m., standard time, on Wednesday, the sixth day of May, 1908 for the purpose of electing four delegates from the State of Kentucky-at-large, and four alternate delegates-at-large to the National Convention of the Republican party, to be held in Chicago Ill., on Tuesday, June 26, 1908, and for the purpose of nominating two electors from said State-at-large, to be voted for at the election to be held November 3, 1908.

The delegates to said State convention shall be elected by county mass-conventions to be held in the county seat in each county at 1 o'clock, standard time on Saturday April 25 1908, except in the counties of Boyd, Campbell and Kenton in which counties conventions shall be held at the cities of Ashland, Newport and Covington, respectively, and provided that in Jefferson county said mass-convention shall be held in each of the wards of the city of Louisville and for the county outside the limits of said city, which latter meeting may be held in said city. One delegate shall be elected for each 100 votes or fraction thereof, amounting to fifty or over, cast for the Republican electors in such county at the presidential election in 1904. The form of voting at said county or ward mass-conventions, shall be by ballot in each county in which the county committee provides for the election of county committeemen by ballot at county or ward mass-conventions, and said elections of delegates in counties which elect county committeemen by county or ward mass-conventions shall be held by the same officers who conduct the election of county committeemen. In counties which do not elect county committeemen by ballot the form of voting for such delegates shall be viva voce.

The Republican Congressional District Committee of each congressional district will, as directed by the call of the Republican National Committee meet and direct the holding of a congressional district convention in such district for the purpose of electing two district delegates and two alternates to said National Convention and said committee is hereby directed to provide in its call for the election of one member of the State Central Committee and for the nomination of one elector, to be voted for at said national election.

And it is hereby recommended that the delegates to said district convention be elected at the same time and in the same manner as the delegates to said State convention.

Said State Central Committee further directs that except as hereinafter provided in each and every county the new members of the Republican county Committee shall be elected by precinct meetings which precinct meetings shall be held at 1 o'clock p. m. standard time on Saturday May 2 1908 in the manner prescribed in Rule 2 of the Rules of the Republican organization of Kentucky except, however that in each county in which said county Committee determines that such members of such County Committee shall be elected by county or ward mass-conventions such mass-conventions shall be held in such county at the same time and place at which delegates are elected to said State convention, to wit on Saturday, April 25, at 1 o'clock p. m. standard time.

RICHARD P. ERNST, Ch'm'n.
ALVIS S. BENNETT, Sec.

PROF. ZUEBLIN HITS HARD AT SOCIETY.

Ethical Culture Lecturer Deplores Steady Decay of Authority.

Verbal hot shot for some of the oddities and peculiarities of society were handed out by Prof. Charles Zueblin of the University of Chicago in the course of a lecture on "The Decay of Authority, before the Ethical Culture Society in the New Century drawing rooms at Philadelphia recently." The hall was well filled with an audience composed largely of women, who appeared to derive much pleasure from the lecturer's sarcasm and irony. It was in the up the various points outlined in his introductory remarks that he put his respects to modern society with particular reference to the Philadelphia aristocracy.

Prof. Zueblin told of the decay of civil authority and of the dawning of the day of a government that is really "of, by and for the people;" he told of the decay of intellectual authority, and of the decay of social authority, which he declared seems slower, but just as sure as the other.

"That imaginary line which runs down the center of Market street is not wholly imaginary," he said. "At least so some people have found out when they tried to cross it. The sacred precincts south of Market street are still sacred, but the time is coming when there will be another gauge of social prestige than blood. Blood may be tainted. So may be money. It is true but we already have an inherent dislike for an aristocracy founded solely on money."

It seems scarcely possible that a French count, with a dishonored name and a smirched reputation should ever again be able to mingle with decent people. Yet the boast has been made and there seems now no reason to doubt that it will be made good. I have not the slightest doubt that in America where the exhausted nobility of Europe has been getting its economic supplies, and incidentally its wives an heiress can be found who will produce enough golden dollars to buy back that high place in society which has been lost. And gold dollars will do the trick shameful as it may seem."

The Jumping off Place.

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now it saved my life improvement began with the first bottle and after taking one dozen bottles I was a well and happy man again says George Moore, of Grimesland, N. C. As a remedy for coughs and colds and healer of weak sore lungs and for preventing pneumonia New Discovery is supreme. 50c and $1.00 at all druggists Trial bottle free."

Taft and His Candidacy.

A reader writes to say that it is in comprehensible to him "why The Washington Herald an independent and highminded newspaper, which seems to think so well of President Roosevelt so obviously disapproves of the candidacy of Secretary Taft."

The Washington Herald does not disapprove of Secretary Taft's candidacy. It recognizes in him a man big enough to be President—a fine wholesome, full-blooded American citizen, whose public career is in achievements and in whom White House ambition is altogether becoming and in order. It has said this before, if not in so many words certainly in substance and with just the same sincerity and emphasis and is pleased to say it again.

But while looking upon Secretary Taft as a logical candidate for the Republican nomination The Washington Herald believes and has believed all along that circumstances have contrived to put him before the country in a most illogical and unfortunate position. He was handicapped by entering the campaign as "a man's man"—the President's legatee—when he should have stood squarely on his feet as William Howard Taft, a Republican worthy of the nomination and one asking odds of nobody or favors from any quarter. This naturally would have meant his retirement from the Cabinet a move which he originally contemplated, and which according to report, he at one time had fully decided upon. Had he followed such a course he would to-day in the opinion of this paper, be the most formidable candidate before the people not on the administration's account merely but on his own account primarily.

All powerful as it is prior to a convention an administration is not powerful enough to make any man President. It can command delegate support in convention but it cannot command electoral support at the polls. Harrison's administration tried it and failed.

If today serious doubt is entertained as to Taft's ability, if nominated

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Hellonias Dilosa) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator... makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicinal which moves the blood to the uterus, purifies it and gives it a healthy condition. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), or a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppression) or absent monthly periods; Aching from or accompanying abnormal condition of the digestive organs and female (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present in your system, can you afford to ignore them? Dr. Fyfe's answer is "No." "A single box of the 'Favorite Prescription' will give you the reading ingredient, which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medicinal properties of which it is so richly furnished."

Dr. J. C. Seaver, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Sirley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in diseases of the women, in all catarrhal conditions and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use abroad which has such general superiority of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhoea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

to defeat Bryan or Johnson at the polls it is due to no inherent weakness in Taft's candidacy in itself, but to the obviously short-sighted, not to say abhorrent, methods that have characterized the management of his candidacy from its inception. Beginning with the effort to eliminate Foraker, which admittedly has put Ohio in the doubtful column, Taft's campaign has as a matter of fact, been so manipulated as to jeopardize Republican ascendancy. And everybody now realized that fact.

As this newspaper views the situation, the policy of a President undertaking to name his successor is fraught with infinitely more danger than third-termism and resentment of such policy is doubtless widespread at this moment in spite of the fact that conventions continues to instruct their delegates for Taft. Possibly the undertaking may succeed in the end, but doubt is growing, and will continue to grow.

The Washington Herald trusts that the reader who interrogated it on this point will now understand. The aim is to be clear and to the point. There is nothing in the least incomprehensible about it. A newspaper may be the percentage of illiteracy of our esteem Taft and recognize the logic of Taft's candidacy without approving the methods or the management behind Taft's candidacy—methods and management that have split the Republican party into warring factions and created differences that can only be healed by the lapse of time.—Washington Herald.

Radium and High Pressure.

Research on the effects of high pressure on radio-active phenomena has met with negative results. The Montreal scientists, Professors Eve and Adams say that as a result of their experiments they have found that "radiation generates heat by disintegration equally at the surface of the earth and at pressure which obtain forty or fifty miles beneath the surface."

Neighborhood Favorite.

Mrs. E. D. Charles, of Harbor, Maine speaking of Electric Bitters, says: "It is a neighborhood favorite here with us." It deserves to be a favorite everywhere. It gives quick relief in dyspepsia, liver complaints, kidney derangement, malnutrition, nervousness weakness and general debility. Thorough purifier made it especially useful as a spring medicine. This grand alternative tonic sold under guarantee at all druggists 50c.

Electric Show at Brussels.

An international exposition is contemplated to be held in Brussels which while it will be of a very general nature will be largely devoted to electrical matters. A special hall will be devoted to the exhibition of small motors and appliances made use of in household practice. The exhibition grounds will occupy 200 acres adjoining the Bois de Cambre.

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a Godsend and no wonder. The thick, foul discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Record of Torpedoes Lost.

The correspondent of the Paris Eclair at Cherbourg declares that a record of experiments has disappeared from the torpedo department at the been kept for eleven years contained arsenal. This document which has valuable information regarding the handling of the various types of torpedo, and it is believed to be impossible to replace it.

Smallest Visible Things.

Few persons would guess that the smallest things visible to the eye are the stars. Yet according to a high authority, such is the case. Great as many of the stars are in actual magnitude their distance is so immense that their angular diameter becomes insensible and they approach to the condition of geometrical points. The minute disk that they appear to have are spurious, an effect of irradiation.

FRIDAY, APRIL 3.

As usual winter seems inclined to give a number of farewell performances.

Mr. Bryan is still of the opinion that the early bird cannot be cheated out of the worm by a late comer.

The new Senator, from Vermont is 83, which shows that there is no keeping a young energetic man down.

The Whale swallowed Jonah only once, but the Democrats seem to be determined to swallow Bryan for the third time.

If Senator Elkin's daughter gets to be "Her Royal Highness," will not that give the old man a clear title to "His Royal Nobs."

A St. Louis Millionaire's wife wants a divorce because he fed live birds to his monkey. The brute, to waste good hat material in that way.

A fashion expert says that clothes should match the hair this year. With all her red-headed widows, Texas would look like a vast popple bed this summer.

It is a maxim that a person is judged by the company he keeps. Sometimes a man may be judged by the company he is trying to get away from.

A missionary recent from Japan says Japan loves us too much to fight us, and besides she hasn't the money. Everybody is entitled to this guess as to which is the best reason.

We desire to call special attention to the splendid summary of the new State Laws, enacted by the recent Legislature and approved by the Governor, on the second page.

Note the summary of the work of our recent Legislature elsewhere in these columns. Forty-two measures introduced in the House and thirty-four introduced in the Senate became laws.

A six-months old baby of New York ate up a court summons intended for its mother, and is now declared in contempt of court. The court, however, has not learned one-tenth of the full measure of the baby's contempt.

Probably the most important act of the recent Legislature is the one providing for a vote on a constitutional amendment permitting State aid to public road building. The vote on the question will be taken at the regular election in 1909.

Everything has been arranged for the Denver Convention, including a "refreshments" bar one square away. This will be somewhat inconvenient but it is said that one draught in the rare atmosphere of Denver will produce the usual effects of three. Hence the needed inaccessibility of the refreshment stand.

Representative Jackson of Owen county along with a few other members of the recent legislature and a like number of wisecracks are criticizing Governor Willson for exercising his constitutional right in vetoing some of the measure passed by the legislature. Any one with sufficient information to make himself understood can criticize and complain.

Responding to our statement concerning its extreme solicitude about who Republicans nominate for President, the Hartford Herald says: "The Herald does not care a continental whom the Republicans may nominate." It may not be polite to say it but older folks have always taught us not to meddle with other people's business. If it is so immaterial to the Herald whom Republicans name for President that it don't care a "continental" would it not do well to heed the teachings it should have inculcated in the halcyon days of yore

NO USE READING THE HERALD

There is no use reading the Herald. Judging from its own declarations, its editors, whose business it is supposed to be, to keep posted on public matters, don't know and are adverse to learning any more about public affairs than people who are unfortunately or by their own choosing located remote from the post office, where they are deprived of the daily press, and not having access to telephones and other means of public intercourse. It has no ideas on public questions and no arguments to offer for or against a matter of public importance. These may appear extravagant assertions, but we base our deductions on its own statements, and will substantiate them by the same authority. The current issue of the oracle named takes this paper severely to task because we ventured to hint that we believed we were in better position to know a certain thing than some of our readers.

From its criticism of us we understand that it studiously avoids receiving knowledge or giving information concerning a matter until its readers have first otherwise learned of it. If by observation and study we chance to gain knowledge of public importance should we not give currency to such knowledge? The Herald's unctuous adverse criticism of us for doing so necessarily leads us to believe that it refrains from doing so. It goes on record, by its criticism of us, against giving out information. Hence we conclude that our esteemed contemporary in pursuing the even tenor of its way keeps mum on questions of public concern until its readers have all otherwise informed themselves concerning same. In which case there is no use reading the Herald.

College News.

The fourth term of Hartford College opened March 16th, the examinations that closed the third term's work having been given the previous week. The pupils received their cards last week, which give a complete record of their standing in various studies pursued together with attendance, punctuality and deportment for the term. While the attendance in the Collegiate department has been considerably affected by the numerous cases of measles yet nearly all students who have been ill, have returned and resumed their work with renewed zeal. Teachers and students are very busy as the year nears its close.

Misses Maude Shultz, Edith Duke, Bessie Renfrow and Kate Hawkins entered school at the beginning of the fourth term.

Miss Sadie Henry has returned after a visit to her home.

Messrs. Ellis Sanderfur, Jesse Smith, and Misses Nettie Sands, Mattie Helsley, Ethel Raines, Lucy Rock and Ula Dunn have re-entered school this term after being out of school with the measles.

The following pupils led in their respective classes last term: Caesar, Douglas Felix; Rhetoric, Nellie Smith; General History, Douglas Felix; Beginning Latin, Nora Bennett; Eng. Literature, Douglas Felix; Civics, Tom Hamilton; Trigonometry, Raymer Tinsley; German, Raymer Tinsley; Geometry, Raymer Tinsley; Physics, Raymer Tinsley; Adv. Algebra, John Hamilton; Astronomy, Raymer Tinsley; Second Arithmetic, John and Tom Hamilton; tied, Grammar, John Hamilton; Spelling, John Hamilton; History, J. H. Ward and Will Griffith, tied; Beginner's Geometry, Douglas Felix; first Arithmetic, Mabel Webb; First Grammar, Leslie Shultz and Mabel Webb; First Spelling, Levi Coleman and McHenry Holbrook; Geography, Will Griffith; El. Algebra, Ireland Harrison.

There are seven more weeks of school and it is earnestly desired that all pupils and students remain in school until the close thus completing in the school records their year's work and obtaining promotion to higher grades. Pupils who drop out before the final examinations are marked "dropped" on the records and remain in same grades.

The contestants in the various contests are: Oratorical—Vernon Crowder, Frank Hamilton, Roy Heavrin, McHenry Holbrook and Bessie Rayle; Declamatory—Anna Keown, Elsie Matthews, Nora Wedding, Mattie Igegn, Altha Likens, Ireland Harrison, Levi Coleman.—Contributed.

In Memory

Of Dr. L. H. Hammons, who died March 3, 1908. He was born in Cape Girardeau county, Missouri, February 9, 1848. He served with honor and distinction in the Confederate army, having enlisted under General Price, when a mere boy. On his return from the army he was married to Miss Bena Polk, in October, 1867. To this union one child was born, who still survives. He came to Kentucky April 1, 1873, and was married to Miss Mag Thompson, of Horton, April 13, 1875. To this marriage seven children were born. Besides his wife the following children survive: John E. Geary, Okla.; Mrs. C. M. Youngs, of St. Louis, Mo.; A. P. Hammons, Horton; Mrs. R. I. Barnard, Beaver Dam; Mrs. N. G. Baker, Louisville; Ethel, Leslie and Ruth, Horton.

When a young man Dr. Hammons identified himself with the Baptist church in which he lived a consistent Christian. He was one of Ohio county's best citizens, always allied with the cause of right and ever ready to assist the needy. He was the last of his father's family to go and will be widely missed and greatly mourned. After an appropriate funeral sermon by Rev. F. M. Baker his remains were laid to rest in the Liberty cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

Card of Thanks.

We take this means to thank our dear friends who were so faithful to us and my dear mother in her recent illness and death. Many kind tokens of esteem and sympathy were extended us for which we will ever be thankful. James Felix and wife.

WILL TRY AGAIN TO GET TOGETHER

Want to Unite For Perservation of Rights of Seller and For Law and Order.

Owensboro, Ky., April, 2.—Already representatives of the tobacco growing interests of the Green river district are here from the neighboring counties to prepare for the meeting of the district A. S. of E. which will be held here to-day beginning at 10 a. m. There is a general understanding that a mass meeting in which the Home Warehouse company the regular A. S. of E. and the independent growers will be represented will be held in the afternoon following the session of the A. S. of E. district association. The indications on every hand are that the growers of the county and the district will come to the city in numbers unequalled since the day of the "army of peaceable invasion" last fall. On every hand except with a few exceptions there seems to be a very general disposition to get together for the future for the preservation of the right of the seller and also for the preservation of law and order as they have been preserved in this region so far.

A conference in which the various interests of the growers will be represented was held at the Columbus hotel last night and it is believed that all details for a new organization were perfected for submission to the meeting to be held this afternoon. It is thought by some that to be composed of the growers of Daviess and neighboring counties of Ohio, McLean, Hancock and probably Breckenridge will be formed without any reference to the National A. S. of E., but guided mainly by the principles of that organization. This difference may prevent any perfect coming together of the factions that will be represented in the meeting.

Important Insurance Ruling Expected.

Frankfort, Ky., March 31.—Insurance Commissioner C. W. Bell will in a few days hand down an important ruling on the question of the validity of special or "board" contract written by some of the life insurance companies doing business in this State. A "board" policy or contract is one where an agent goes to a town or community and says to one or two influential men: "If you will help me and act as an advisory board in securing about a dozen or more policies my company will give you a special premium rate and a certain per cent. of the premiums paid to the company on all future policies issued in this county will go to decrease your premium each year."

Of course this is a good thing for the dozen or so "board" policyholders, but the other policyholders have to pay for it in the end, hence a large number of the companies are trying to have the practice stopped by the Insurance Commissioner. There is no specific law on the subject but the general law says there shall be no discrimination in insurance rates. Commissioner Bell has heard arguments in favor of allowing such contracts to be written and will have the other side probably to-morrow. Helm Bruce, of Louisville, will make the argument.

Best Cure For Colic in Horses.

Colic is usually the result of indigestion, caused by sudden changes of feed, too long fasting, food given when the horse is exhausted new hay or grain, or large quantities of green feed.

Every horse owner should keep Sloan's Sure Colic Cure in his stable as an insurance against colic, for an attack of colic is liable to come on without warning at any time and Sloan's Sure Colic Cure is the safest and best remedy to use. It acts instantly on the stomach and bowels and can be given by a woman or a child.

"I cured a horse with colic that had been treated by a good veterinary surgeon, for forty-eight hours," writes Mr. R. A. Pierce, of Chutta Springs, Ga. "The horse was about dead and the owner said he would take five cents for him. I gave him three doses of Sloan's Sure Colic Cure and he was up and eating hay in ten minutes."

Personal Enemies Salt Beds.

Some reports of plant bed destruction are coming in from Daviess county farmers. The plant bed of Jacob Hardin, of Ensor neighborhood was salted on Tuesday night. The salt was dissolved by the heavy rains which fell during the night, and the plants will doubtless die.

On a tobacco stick in the bed was fastened a note to Mr. Hardin commanding him not to put out a tobacco plant this year, under penalty of having his "hide split and salted as your bed is." The note is signed "Night Riders."

Mr. Hardin is not a member of the tobacco growers organization. He was a participant in the Law and Order League meeting held in Owensboro last fall, at the time the "army of peaceful invasion" was riding over the county. Mr. Hardin is inclined to believe that his plant bed was salted by personal enemies and not by any organization.

BEAN POT FULL OF GOLD COINS

$5,500 Found by Chas. Wells, of Calloway County--To Take The Rest Cure.

Paducah, Ky., April 1.--While digging for a foundation for a sawmill near Woodville, Charles H. Wells, a young man of Calloway county, struck an old bean pot, which he raised to the surface and found it to contain gold and silver coins. Taking it to his boarding house nearby, he and two companions counted the coins and found the kettle held $5,500. The money was in five ten and twenty-dollar gold pieces, with the exception of $200, which was in silver. He has deposited the money in banks at Wickliffe, Ky., Metropolis and Cairo, Ill.

Wells has been a poor man all of his life and unfortunate. Recently he went to work on a Mayfield paper, but had to give up the work on account of ill health. He had worked on farms in this section. Coming to Paducah he was employed by J. L. Thurman, a saw-mill man, to go to Ballard county and assist in the erection of a mill, in which he was to receive employment after its completion. Wells has quit the job and will live easy for a while.

Arrah Wanna

Eight-thirty o'clock found the Arrah Wanna together with several guests of honor, at the beautiful home of Miss Lily Burton last Tuesday evening, all eager to begin the games. The rooms were beautifully decorated with blossoms so suggestive of spring-time. There, amid the freshly scented air and the odor of the blossoms, were played eight games of progressive finch. Miss Stella Woerner won seven games, the highest number won. After this quite an appetizing and refreshing lunch was served. It consisted of fruit salad early marrowfat peas, salmon croquette, pickles cheese wafers, and hot coffee with whipped cream.

Those who enjoyed the hospitalities of Miss Burton were as follows: Guests of honor, Mesdames, Ira Bean, Wayne Render, Misses Lettie Marks, Earley Mae Magan, Maggie Marks, Members: Misses Stella Woerner, Leone Maddox, Nora Bennett, Debbie Taylor, Annie Moreland, Hettie Riley, Florence Jones, Lizzie Miller, Eva Taylor, Effie Render, Annie Patton, Elba Bean, Mary Keown, Zella Nall, Pearl Thomas.

Beautiful Wedding of Mr. Duke and Miss Miller.

The marriage of Miss Vera Miller, of Dundee, and Mr. Almond Duke, of Hartford, took place at the home of the bride, amid a few friends and relatives promptly at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening of last week.

The beautiful home being tastefully arranged, and a beautiful arch of evergreen under which the couple were united as man and wife.

The bride and groom were dressed most becomingly in a blue tailored suit. Rev. J. Frank Baker, of Elkton, a prominent young minister who has a large number of friends in this community, said a most impressive ceremony.

After congratulation the guests immediately entered the dining room, where an elaborate supper had been prepared. The supper was very nice in deed and all seemed to enjoy it. Mr. and Mrs. Duke will go immediately to ## Millinery Suggestions.

The mere announcement that Spring Hats are ready is enough to make us think of sunshine, flowers, bright, shining faces, made bright perhaps by the purchase of one of our milliner's creations, modeled after new and up-to-date Imported Patterns.

Our Miss Moseley is better prepared to suit your wants in a new Spring Hat than ever before. All the novelties are here--the big Sailors, the "Merry Widow" Hat, and some of the prettiest braided and Leghorn Hats ever shown.

Formal opening April 3 and 4, but will be pleased to take your order at any time.

house-keeping in a beautiful cottage seven miles south of Hartford, being handsomely furnished, awaiting their arrival.

The lives of these two young people are known all through this and surrounding communities. Too much cannot be said of the bride who is a daughter of J. H. Miller and the sister of C. E. Miller, of this county, and of Mrs. A. M. Acton of Chicago. She was very devoted to her home duties as well as her church, she is an example that should be emulated. Mr. Duke is the son of J. D. Duke of Hartford and is well known as an up-to-date farmer, and well deserves the young woman he has taken to be his wife. A number of handsome presents were received. ONE PRESENT.

Notice to Republicans.

Persuant to the direction of the Republican State Central Committee the time for holding precinct mass-conventions to elect members of the county committee is changed from March 7th to May, 2nd-1908. It is therefore ordered that the Republicans of Ohio county Assemble at their several voting places at 1 o'clock on Saturday May 2, 1908 for the purpose of selecting members of the county executive committee.

FESTIVAL OF THE DEAD.

Esquimos Provide Food and Clothes For Returning Ghosts.

The natives of the Yukon river region hold a festival of the dead every year shortly before Christmas and a greater festival at intervals of several years. At these seasons food, drink and clothes are provided for the returning ghosts in the clubhouse of the village, which is illuminated for the occasion with oil lamps. Every man or woman who wishes to honor a dead friend sets up a lamp on a stand in front of the place which the dead one used to occupy in the clubhouse. These lamps, filled with seal oil, are kept burning day and night until the festival is over. They are believed to light the shades on their return to their old home and back again to the land of the dead. If any one fails to put up a lamp in the clubhouse and to keep it burning, the shade whom he or she desires to honor could not find its way to the place and so would miss the feast. When a person has been much disliked his ghost is sometimes purposely ignored, and that is deemed the severest punishment that could be inflicted upon him. After the songs of invitation to the dead have been sung the givers of the feast take a small portion of food from every dish and cast it down as an offering to the shades. Then each person a little water on the floor so that it runs through the cracks. In this way they believed the spiritual essence of all the food and water is conveyed to the souls. With songs and dances the feast comes to an end and the ghosts are dismissed to their own place. The dancers dance, not only in the clubhouse, but also at the graves and on the ice if the dead met their deaths by drowning. On the eve of the festival the nearest male relative goes to the grave and summons the ghost by planting there a small model of a seal spear or of a wooden dish, according as the dead was a man or a woman. The totems of the dead are marked on these implements. The dead who have none to make offerings to them are believed to suffer great destitution; hence the Esquimos fear to die without leaving behind them some one who will sacrifice to their spirit, and childless people generally adopt children lest their shades be forgotten at the festivals.—New York Tribune.

A QUEER TREE

The Tumbo Is a Monstrosity of the African Desert.

The mature tumbo is a tree with a trunk about two feet long, shaped much like an inverted cone. Almost all the trunk is below the surface of the ground, the visible part rarely exceeding a few inches. But the remarkable feature of the stem is that it is often fourteen feet in circumference and becomes more or less a two lobed mass. The stem looks more like a great mass of "the burned crust of a loaf of bread," to quote Dr. Weltwitsch's letter, than the trunk of a tree. The underground portion becomes greatly elongated, and its continuation is the top root of the plant. This goes down several feet in its effort to get the few drops of water that the arid conditions of the country permit.

There are never more than two leaves after the seed leaves drop off, and very curious leaves they are. Starting from a groove on opposite sides of the depressed mass, they stand straight out on both sides of the plant. They are often six feet long and two feet wide and usually split into ribbons that undulate over the ground in a way strikingly suggestive of the tentacles of an octopus. With its great ugly body and its tentacle-like leaves it is no wonder that it has been the most remarkable plant novelty of the last century.

The flowers are borne in scarlet cones on a cymose inflorescence coming from the crown of the trunk. Tumbos belong to the joint fir family, or gnetaceae, and is known only from Portuguese West Africa to Damaland. This is a region that seldom gets any rain, and desert conditions prevail almost completely, except for the sea fogs. The tumbo is thus a desert plant par excellence, and it is only by a close approximation of these very arid conditions that we can cultivate it.—New York Botanic Garden.

Question of Nationality.

An Englishman, a Frenchman and a German sitting together in the smoking room of an ocean liner, the conversation turned on their nationality, and one of them asked what each of the three would choose to be if he were not of his own nation. The Frenchman said, "If I were not a Frenchman, I would be an Englishman." The Englishman said, "If I were not an Englishman, I would wish to be a German." The German said, "If I were not a German I would wish to be a German."—Carl Peters in Deutsche Monatschrift.

On Yawning.

I have come to the conclusion that if a man yawns and you don't want to yawn, too, the only way to prevent it is to blow your nose. A man of my acquaintance boasts that he can set a whole railway carriage full of people yawning by merely taking time over it himself, and I believe he can.—Fry's Magazine.

The Ruins.

Same Old Reason.

"I've played the ponies to my grief year in, year out, day after day." "Then why do you keep at it?" "Well, I've got a good thing for tomorrow."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A PUMA CUB.

He Was Plucky, but Paid For His Temerity With His Life.

Hissing like a sullen geyser, the great puma mother crouches with flaming eyes. Ridge of her tawny back brushed up in rage, tail a-switch, steel sinews rigid beneath soft skin, she glared at her four cubs in the cage corner. A fluffy ball of spotted fur sprawled on unsteady legs across toward her. Out shot a mighty fore paw; the baby was hurled suddenly back among his cowering brothers and sisters.

"Nasty temper," I remarked to the keeper. "Has she been long like that?" "Started this forenoon." He shook his head in anxiety. "I don't like it. I'll have to separate them, I fear."

The unnatural mother commenced pacing her prison, snarling viciously at her offspring in passing. Three huddled together in a pitiful heap, but one stood up and defied her. A jungle terror in miniature, his tiny rage was magnificent. Tensely alert before his trembling mates, he shifted warily to meet each blow, dodging, spitting, striking out an awkward paw at the great thrusts.

"They don't turn on their cubs often. Only knew it once before. You notice, mein herr, her claws are not out when she strikes. That may come; then we will lose some promising babies here."

The young German keeper was greatly distressed. I returned in the morning to see how the affair had progressed. Entering the Frankfurt Thiergarten, I found the lion house. My friend stood in the empty corridor looking into the cage. Sleek forms shifted restlessly on every side; a pale light came from above; the place was close with a heavy odor.

He greeted me mournfully. "The little beggar was too spirited. She got him last night. Just a second in her jaws, and the taxidermist won't attempt to stuff the skin." The remaining cubs peered wonderingly at us from an adjoining cage; the murderer paced in silence, but her eyes were alive with a strange fascinating light. The tragedy had stirred the rows of imprisoned beasts. An uncanny howl in a chilling key came from the leopards; the lion's deep throat-guttural sent unwelcome quivers through one's nerves.

I left the building, relieved to feel the breeze and see the sunlight. Poor little chap of a puma, he surely had tremendous pluck!—Travel Magazine.

A PRESENT DAY UTOPIA.

Moore's Island, the Happiest and Finest Spot on Earth.

Hugo Parton, writing in the Outing Magazine, says that the happiest and most beautiful spot on earth today is the island of Moore, one of the Society Islands, in the south seas. As a contrast to strenuous American methods this description sounds alluring:

"Whenever you are thirsty a word will send a lithe brown body scrambling up a tall palm tree trunk, and in two minutes a green coconut is ready for you to quaff—the nectar of the Polynesian gods. It is worth the trip down here to eat the native 'vittals,' for you get at every meal things you never tasted before, and each seems better than its predecessor; to see your dinner of fresh water shrimps, sharks' fins and roasted sea urchins. The bananas you eat—there are eleven varieties—baked, raw, fried, dried—grow a few rods back in the valley; ditto the breadfruit, the pineapples and about everything else on the board. It's nice to have your morning coffee grown in the back yard. Guavas grow in such profusion they are used as pig food, grated coconut is fed to hens, while sensitive plant is considered excellent fodder for cattle.

"For perfection of the human body the Tahitian is unequalled, if, indeed, he is anywhere unequalled. They are a large race, both men and women being noticeably taller and more fully developed than Anglo-Saxons. I doubt if any Society Islander ever went through a whole day in his life without having a wreath of flowers on his head or a blossom behind his ear. The love of flowers is innate with man, woman and child. They can't pass through a patch of woods without emerging with a garland. Every gay mood calls for flowers on their hats, in their hair, behind their ears, and their life is an almost unbroken sequence of gay moods. Scarcely a native on the island of Moore can speak a sentence of English, but every one you meet greets you with a courteous smile and the welcoming word 'la-ora-na' (Yorana)."

Poetry Defined.

George P. Morris, the author of "Woodman, Spare That Tree," was a general of the New York militia and a favorite with all who knew him. Mrs. Sherwood in her reminiscences tells how another poet associated the general with a definition of poetry.

Once Fitz-Greene Halleck, the author of "Marco Bozzaris," called upon her in New York in his old age, and she asked him to define for her what was poetry and what was prose.

He replied: "When General Morris commands his brigade and says, 'Soldiers, draw your swords!' he talks prose. When he says 'Soldiers, draw your willing swords!' he talks poetry."

A Bargain.

"What?" exclaimed the husband. "You drew your savings from the bank, went to a broker's office and bought Z. X. and Y. stock at 14, when it has been dropping like a rock?"

"But, my dear," argued the wife. "It was such a bargain. Why, during the short time I was in the office I saw the man mark it down to 14 from 45!"—Success Magazine.

Next to excellence is the appreciation of it.—Thackeray.

WONDERFUL BREAD.

The Veracious Narrative of Its Making, Baking and Sale.

"How did I happen to become a hotel clerk?" replied the man behind the desk. "Well, it was this way: I used to be a sailor. That was where I learned about whales. In fact, I was second mate of the first iron ship that ever rounded the Horn, bound from Boston to San Francisco, loaded with flour, yeast and salt to furnish grub to the California miners soon after the civil war.

"We got around the Horn all right when we ran into about the worst bit of weather ever brewed on the Pacific. Iron ships were an experiment then, and we soon found ourselves in trouble. The fresh water tanks sprang a leak, and the water ran down over the cargo. To make matters worse, the flour barrels and boxes of yeast broke loose, and with the rolling of the ship we soon had it all mixed up together. In other words, the whole ship below decks was full of dough that the rolling of the ship kneaded just as a regular breadmaking machine does out in the kitchen here. And it began to rise.

"We fastened down the hatches at first, but soon had to take them off on the lower decks or the expanding dough would burst the ship. And we put on all steam for San Francisco. We crossed the equator like a race horse, and there we made our second great mistake. The strain on the engines caused them to break down, so we had to go at half speed, and we were at a standstill for two whole days right there under a burning sun. The storm we had run out of, and the weather was clear and hot. Whew!

"Then we got under full steam again and plowed north to the Golden Gate with a deck hand sitting on the safety valve. But we were too late. The dough into one huge loaf of bread. How to get it out of the ship was a question.

"The owners, who were the captain and one of our passengers, sold the ship just as she arrived for only half what they had paid for her new in Boston. But the new owner was a genius. He put the hungry miners to work with picks and shovels cutting out the bread and sold it at the rate of $1 a shovelful. It was the finest bread you or any one else ever ate.

"I was out of a job as second mate, and when I saw what a profit there was in that bread I just naturally went into the feeding business myself, and that's how I became associated with the hotel business. Front! Show this gentleman to the cafe."—Portland Oregonian.

Mary Stuart's Curious Watches.

Among the watches owned by Mary Stuart was a coffin shaped watch in a case of crystal. Probably the most remarkable one in her collection was the one which was bequeathed to Mary Seaton, her maid of honor. It was in the form of a skull. On the forehead of the skull was the symbol of death, the scythe and the hourglass. At the back of the skull was Time, and at the top of the head were the garden of Eden and the crucifixion. The watch was opened by reversing the skull. Inside was a representation of the holy family surrounded by angels, while the shepherds and their flocks were worshipping the newborn Christ. The works formed the brains, while the dial plate was the palate. She also possessed another skull shaped watch, but it is not known what became of it.

The Egg in Medicine.

The white of an egg is an antidote in cases of poisoning with strong acids or corrosive sublimate. The poison will coagulate the albumen, and if these poisons be in the system the white of an egg, if swallowed quickly, will combine with the poison and protect the stomach. An astringent poultice is made by causing it to coagulate with alum. This is called alum curd and is used in certain diseases of the eye. The yolk of the egg is sometimes used in jaundice and is an excellent diet for dyspeptics.

Helping the Musician.

At a political meeting an Irishman watched closely the trombone player in the band. Presently the man laid down his instrument and went out for a beer. Paddy investigated and promptly pulled the horn to pieces.

The player returned. "Who's meddled mit my drombone?" he roared.

"O' did," said Paddy. "Here ye've been for two hours tryin' to pull it apart, an' O' did it in wan minuit!"—Argonaut.

Sappho.

Sappho was born in Lesbos about the end of the seventh century B. C. In antiquity the fame of Sappho rivaled that of Homer. She was called "the poetess;" he was called "the poet." She was styled "the tenth muse," "the flower of the graces," "a miracle," "the beautiful." But few fragments of her works are preserved, and these only incidentally by other writers.

Spared Him.

"You dislike him, don't you?"

"Yes, but not enough for that."—Life.

"Hear the story of the shaky building?"

"Nope. What is it?"

"Oh, there's no foundation to it!"—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

There are no greater wretches in the world than many of those whom people in general take to be happy.—Seneca.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Jealousies and Yearnings That Beset the Small Boy.

HIS MISERY AND TRIUMPHS.

The Things That Other Boys Had and
He Wanted and Couldn't Get—A Fat
Man's Memory Deeply Stirred by a Pair of Sleeve Protectors.

"The other day at a poultry market I saw a chicken butchering a pair of those basket sleeve protectors, and I stood and laughed like a fool," said the fat man. "First time I'd seen a pair of basket sleeve protectors for years, and so I just had to laugh. Tell you why. When I was a tike I used to look with wonder and awe upon a fellow who wore a pair of basket sleeve protectors. I considered that fellow with a pair of those things was all right, all right, plus some more."

"They had a kind of jaunty air about 'em that I couldn't and can't define, but it was there, and I revered and revered 'em. I made up my mind that if I ever grew up and got the price, me, too, for a pair of those basket sleeve protectors, no matter what sort of work I'd happen to tackle. "Queer dickens, boys, eh? "Remember those patent pencil attachments that marketmen used to have—may have 'em yet—bitch to their aprons? Well, I thought those were pretty nifty things, too, and I used to secretly hanker to own one of 'em. Made up my mind that I would own one of 'em, too, when I got to be a man, but somehow I never seemed to want one when I reached the shaving age."

"Guess some of my ambitions as a boy were pretty crazy anyhow. I was so jealous of the first boy I ever met that could spit through his teeth at a mark and hit it that I hated him. That same boy pretty early in life got a job driving a delivery wagon for a grocery. Well, pretty soon after he got that job he was wearing a pair of those patent elastic sleeve supporters, or holders, or whatever you'd call 'em—things with a clutch at either end that pulled the cuff back from the wrist. This boy's pair of those things were pink elastic, and how he used to flaunt 'em before my eyes!"

"He knew blamed well that those pink elastic sleeve supporters looked finer to me than any Star of India or Victoria Cross could possibly look, and he knew besides that because I had to go to school and wasn't earning anything there wasn't a possible chance on earth for me to get a pair like 'em—and so he just held 'em over me and made my life miserable. Yet when I got to the wage earning age I never seemed to care at all for a pair of pink elastic sleeve supporters."

"Another boy that I hated had a maroon colored cardigan jacket. That was before the day of sweaters. This hated boy wore the cardigan jacket beneath his regular outer coat and so he didn't have to wear any overcoat. That, I considered, was a gorgeous blessing—not to have to wear an overcoat to school. I despised this boy for having it on me that way. Anyhow, his maroon colored cardigan jacket had a couple of pockets in front that he kept full of all kinds of junk—sometimes he even carried mice to school in 'em. And that made my indignation all the greater—the fact that he had those two fine covered up pockets to his cardigan jacket."

"One great triumph did come to my tike life, though, and that was the fact that I was the first boy of my school to own a pair of copper toed boots. Well, I sprang the first pair, as I say, at my school, and I guess I didn't break the hearts of all the other boys or nothin'! Besides the copper toes, these boots had red tops, with a silver star and crescent stamped on the red tops, and that made the blow all the more frightful to the other lads that had to see me stalking around in those boots. After awhile, though, nearly all of the other youngsters showed up with copper toed boots and thus took the wind out of my sails."

"We never see boys wearing peaked caps any more—notice? I don't mean these dinky little cloth caps with peaks to 'em, but regular soldiers' caps with glazed peaks. First boy that turned up in our neighborhood with one of those things on had a sensation, all right. This same boy had got hold of a carpenter's pencil somewhere, and he'd stick that carpenter's pencil underneath his forage cap, with the sharpened end projecting in a mighty blase way that certainly caused us to regard him as some pumpkins. I was always crazy for a carpenter's pencil when I was a boy, but I never got hold of one—never did have much luck when I was a boy anyhow. My folks were too blamed respectable."

"As a matter of fact—you can believe it or not, but I'm telling you the truth—they wouldn't let me at the age of ten apply for the job of brakeman on a passenger train. That, I thought, was the finest job in the world—brakeman on a passenger train—just swinging a red lantern all the time, and wearing a peaked cap mostly on the left ear, and the peak pushed back so as to show an oiled hang plastered down, and sitting on a wood box in the smoker talking to fellows, and carrying a pair of red flags around everywhere, and all that. But the main appeal of the brakeman's job was the pair of red lanterns."

"Oh, well, that pair of basket sleeve protectors that I saw at the poultry market the other day certainly carried me back a long way, and I was still laughing like a fool when I strolled away."—Charleston News and Courier.

He Knew Her.

The conductor looked at the thin man.
"Do you see that stout woman at the other end of the car, the one with the monkey hat?" he asked.
"I think I see the one you mean," the thin man responded.

"There, she's looking this way," said the conductor. "Well, sir, I admire that woman."

"You do?"
"Yes, I do. She may have a squint and wear bad fitting clothes and big shoes, yet I admire her."

"She knows how to get off a car the right way, and that's why. She's too stout, and her hair is ratty, and she hasn't any taste, but when she steps down from the back platform I never worry. I know she'll land all right. I'm dead sure she isn't going to sit down in the mud and ask me for my number. That's why I admire her. Here she comes now. Watch her when she gets off."

The stout woman came down the aisle and briskly descended to the street. And the conductor, with his hand on the bell rope, winked approvingly at the slim man.

Then the stout woman looked around. "Come, George," she called, and the slim man meekly followed her.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Simple Minded Kurds.

Some of the peculiar traits of the Kurds of Asia Minor are described by a traveler: "If it were possible to imagine two colors more distinct than black and white it would be possible to imagine two characters more widely differing than those of the Arab and Kurd. The pure Kurd is the most unsophisticated and glib person in the world so long as you keep away from the material issues. His respect for a man who can read and write is almost pitiable. The Kurds are on the whole blunt and somewhat uncouth, silent and quite incapable of falsehood. If they do wrong—and they often do—they admit the fault in the simplest and most unaffected way. I had a muleteer who was honest, civil and incorrigibly idle. 'Did you ever kill a man?' I asked him one day. Yes; sixteen on the Kazant road when I was a deserter from the army. 'came the reply in a voice absolutely unmoved. 'You were a robber?' 'Yes, but now, praise be to God, I am married and a muleteer.'"

No Chesterfield.

A Boston man was praising the late Earl of Dunmore.

"Lord Dunmore," he said, "was a good man. Tall and robust and supple, I can see him still with his short gray beard and his kind face. His only fault—a fault due to his aristocratic upbringing, no doubt—was the exaggerated value that he set upon correctness. He insisted in correctness in eating, in dress, in everything."

"At a dinner in Beacon street once I heard him tell a story about an incorrect self made man, or 'nouveau riche,' as he called him. This man was dressing one night to go out. His wife bustled into the room before he started to look him over."

"'But, George,' she said reproachfully, 'aren't you going to wear your diamond studs to the banquet?'"

"'No. What's the use?' George growled. 'My napkin would hide 'em anyway.'"—New Orleans States.

Proof of Brains.

Mr. Travers, the famous New York wit, once met at dinner a pompous Englishman who was "doing" the States. He had letters aplenty attesting his importance—letters from Gladstone, Dilke, Salisbury and Churchill. He had talked everybody tired before the dinner began, and Travers saw visions of a bad meal when he discovered the Englishman to be his neighbor at the table. There was never a stop in the fellow's tongue. When the oysters were brought on he began: "Now, it is a question as to whether or not the oyster has brains. Scientists dispute the idea." "T-t-t they certainly have some," retorted Travers. "Your proof, sir?" challenged the Briton, eager for argument. "W-wh-wh-wh, sir, the o-o-oyster knows h-hah-how to shut up."

Uplifting the Savage.

We have received the following spicy analysis of British civilizing procedures in Africa from a young Egyptian from Tanta, who shows dramatic aptitudes. The title of his communication is:

A TRAGEDY IN SIX ACTS.

Act 1.—The missionary.
Act 2.—Whisky and pale ale.
Act 3.—The Maxim gun.
Act 4.—A newspaper.
Act 5.—Cricket and football.
Act 6.—Death of the last aborigine.
Finis.—Band plays "Rule Britannia."

"Well," remarked her husband facetiously, "I always understood that 'misery loves company.'"—Catholic Standard.

Her Bribe.

Unattractive Maiden Aunt—Goodby, Jottie. Come soon again. I hope you'll forgive my not kissing you, but I have an awful cold. Jottie (aged six)—Never mind. Do kiss me, auntie. Mother said she'd give me 5 cents if I'd let you.—Exchange.

THE "TUPPENCE" HABIT.

It Has a Firm Grip on London and Its Inhabitants.

Tuppence—meaning, of course, two-pence and equal to the sum of 4 cents in United States currency—is the dominating sum in London. It is as much an institution as the war debt, beer or the game of cricket. Wherever you go, whatever you do, whatever you sell or whenever you open your mouth it is tuppence or a series of that sum that is extracted from you. It more than takes the place of the five cent piece in America or the three penny bit in the British possessions.

Tuppence is as much as a fairly well to do worker can afford for his meal at midday. In the poorer restaurants that sum gets him two slices and a big mug, or three slices and a little mug, or a portion of cake and a drink, or a fried egg, slice and small mug, or a sausage with mash or bread, or a rasher of bacon. In the next higher class everything drinkable is twopence per cup, while pastry, pies, etc., are the same sum per head. At the "popular"—i. e., "no gratuities"—restaurants the waiters expect a tuppenny tip (though it is advertised otherwise by the proprietors), and the non-tipper has a bad time. At most cafes tipping is the usual thing, and tuppence is expected and is accepted with the servile bow and pleased expression that distinguish the English and continental waiter upon such occasions.

The tuppenny tube is well known. You deposit that sum, and you get in anywhere and get out anywhere else you please. On trolley cars and buses that amount will carry you for an hour or two very often, usually to the terminus. The railroad porter who carries your rug a few yards or who says "Yus" when you ask if the train has stopped always has his hand out for the usual fee, though he will carry your two large bags and whatever else you have for half a mile over high stairs and low lines and accept the same amount with the same satisfaction.

The cabby to whom you give coppers over the legal fare salutes you respectfully, but if you pay double fare in a lordly manner he wants more and is apt to make disparaging remarks about your breeding, as may the bootblack to whom you give 1 instead of 2 pence. The cabby is the surer of the two, however, for disparaging remarks, to which characteristic, I really believe, can be traced the advent of the taximeter.—New York Post.

THE ART OF JUGGLING.

It Demands Much Hard Work and Unlimited Patience.

"To be a successful juggler it is necessary to possess infinite patience. Some tricks require such long and continuous practice that unless a man possessed great patience and unlimited powers of perseverance he would despair of ever being able to perform them," says Paul Cinquevalli in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "Take a trick, for example, like balancing a tall glass on four straws placed on the forehead. It looks easy enough, but it took me years of practice before I could do it. While I am balancing the glass I also juggle with five hats at the same time. I never, as a matter of fact, see the hats. They are handed to me by my assistant, and I then set them going, but the whole time my eyes are fixed on the straws upon which the glass is balanced. If I took my eyes from the straws for a hundredth part of a second their balance would be upset. I know instinctively where the hats are all the time and know exactly where each hat is when I put it out my hand to catch it."

"It took me close on eight years' practice before I was able to balance two billiard balls on top of each other and then balance the two on a billiard cue. I started practicing it an hour a day, as a rule. After a couple of years' practice one night I woke up, having dreamed that I had performed it. I got up, rushed downstairs and began to practice with my cue and two billiard balls, and at the first attempt I balanced them. About five years later I performed the feat in public."

"For the cannon ball trick I first used a wooden ball weighing just one pound. I caught it on the wrong place and was knocked senseless, but I kept on practicing until I found out how to do it. Now I use an iron ball weighing sixty pounds. If I didn't catch the ball on the right place on the back of my neck it would kill me, but there is no chance of my making a mistake."

Surfacing Natural Wood.

White pine, birch, cherry, whitewood, maple, sycamore, gum and hemlock need no filling at all. They are classed as the close grained woods, and their surface presents no pores or cellular tissue to be filled. Still the surface needs to be sealed up so the wood will not suck the oil out of the varnish. This is called surfacing. It consists of coating the surface with shellac and then sandpapering down to a smooth finish. When thus treated the wood is ready for the varnish.

Riding the Rail.

A Georgia paper says, "He who rides on the rail courts death." It was an Irishman, ridden on a rail, who said that except for the honor of the thing he would just as soon walk.—Houston Post.

It Was There.

Composer—Did you hear the torment and despair in my tone poem, "Tantalus," that I just played you? Listener—No, but I noticed them on the faces of the audience.—Fliegende Blätter.

Moving Pictures For Medical Students.

In one of the New York hospitals moving pictures have been made of epileptic patients, as well as of persons affected with locomotor ataxia. This is following the example set in Vienna, where moving pictures have been made of celebrated surgeons performing critical operations. The purpose in both cases is of course to enable students and practitioners to study the peculiarities of diseases and the methods of distinguished operators.

Cheaper Radium.

Speaking at the Royal Institution, London, on the results of recently researches in radio-activity, Prof. Ruthford of Manchester University, commenting on the fact that certain bodies had been separated from the substances thorium, said that the interest attaching to the separation of those bodies lay in the fact that they might hope, by their aid, to obtain a reasonably large quantity of a radio-active substance at a comparatively small cost.

Clock Made of Straw.

An extraordinary addition has been made to the exhibition of inventions now being held in Berlin. A shoemaker named Wegner, living in Strawsburg has sent in a clock of his grandfather's shape nearly six feet high, made entirely of straw. The wheels, pointers, case and every detail are exclusively of straw. Wegner has taken fifteen years to construct this strange piece of mechanism. It keeps perfect time but under the most favorable circumstances cannot last more than two years.—London Globe.

Education in Kentucky.

The following facts should be of interest to all Kentuckians:

The percentage of illiteracy of our total voting population is 18.8.

The rank of Kentucky on this basis is 38.

The percentage of illiteracy of native voters is 13.9.

The rank of Kentucky on this basis is 46.

The percentage of illiteracy of native white voters of native white parentage is 15.5.

The rank of Kentucky on this basis is 49.

There are thirty-eight counties in Kentucky in which the percentage of illiterate white voters is 20 or more; in eight of these the percentage is 30 or more, and in three it is 35.

In 1900 the whole number of illiterate white voters in Kentucky was 65,517, a number at least twice the size of the largest plurality in a State election in recent years.

Kentucky gives fewer days of schooling to her children than any State in the Union but one. Kentucky gives 120 days of schooling, while the New England States give 177 days, Penn-

EQUITY SOCIETY'S POSITION DEFINED.

and daughters of are members. I venture the assertion, without fear of successful contradiction, that no band of night riders ever went out from one of these local unions.

The members of this Society strive, in these meetings, to improve themselves in useful knowledge and the principles include many worthy objects besides the pooling of tobacco. In fact, fully one-third of its members in Kentucky are not producers of tobacco.

In the localities where this Society is strongest no outrages have been committed and where lawlessness has been most rampant it has no membership at all. It strives to teach its members to be law-abiding citizens and it is in fact made up of the best citizens of the State, who are willing, with its officers, to aid in every way possible to stop crime in every form, which they abhor as much as any other class of Kentuckians. We do protest, however, against being held responsible as an organization, for all of this carnival of crime, in view of the facts as set out herein. If our members have engaged in any of these outrages the shall be eliminated from membership and punished to the full extent of the law, if we can aid the authorities in their apprehension. To this end the National Board of Directors at Indianapolis, in January authorized me to offer a reward of $100 in each case for members of this Society. This reward is still standing.

Five counties in the Green River country include more than one-third of the entire membership of the Society of the State. They are:

Ohio, 2,655; Daviess, 1,225; Muhlenberg, 1,272; McLean, 1,007; Hancock, 608; Total, 6,267.

In these five counties no lawlessness has been committed or charged, growing out of the tobacco trouble. Hundreds of men in these counties have continued to raise and sell their tobacco independent of the Society and have been the victims of no harsh treatment. They have taken advantage freely of the high prices brought about by this organization, with no resultant harm, except the loss of respect of their neighbors.

It seems to me that this ought to show that the American Society of Equity instead of being given credit as an instigation to lawlessness should be given as a power for good order in the localities where it is strong enough to make itself felt.

In the County of Trigg, from which the mob was said to have come, which attacked Hopkinsville, this Society has no membership. In the county of Logan, where recent troubles have occurred, we have no membership.

The accompanying report shows that we have only three members in the County of Logan, and only seventy-seven (77) in Christian County.

The first troubles which occurred in Kentucky, I believe, were at Elkton, in Todd County. The accompanying report shows that we only have forty-three (43) members that County. There has been trouble at Princeton, in Caldwell County. The accompanying report shows that we have no membership there. There was trouble at Dawson Springs, in Hopkins County. The accompanying report shows our membership in that County to be seventy-three (73).

We have a considerable membership in Trimble County, only two hundred and ninety-three (293) however, the County, I believe in which Hedges was recently killed. However, the two men who have been arrested for the murder are neither of them members of this Society, and I understand that none of those suspected of the crime are members of this Society.

How absurd, in view of all this, it is for persons to charge this organization and hold it up to public scorn for lawlessness in Kentucky.

We ask that you assist us in setting this Society right before the public, assuring you that you and your associates and the law officers of the State, shall at all times, have the assistance of the officers and members of this Society in bringing to justice perpetrators of crime in all the localities of the State, whether in city or country, believing that the Society and it alone, can work out the salvation and redemption of the farmers of the State from abject slavery to other combinations which long preceded this organization in the field of commercial trade. This Society will not disband. It shall not die, and while we invite prosecution and punishment of its members who do wrong in any direction, we shall defend it from misrepresentation and from those who would, for selfish motives strangle it by heaping unmerited odium upon its membership, by every honorable means in our power.

Its death would mean the placing of the farmer in the helpless condition in which he found himself four or five years ago, when unorganized he found the products of the farm depreciating in value from year to year, when the country was enjoying the greatest prosperity it had ever known, with no seeming good cause for the low prices of some of his products. He had to meet organization with organization. To refuse to do so meant starvation for himself and children, as well as depreciation of his lands.

The success of this organization placing the farmer in an independent condition, retaining his boys upon the farm means better condition for all of our people in every walk of life. For, at least, the success and prosperity of the country absolutely depends upon the prosperity of the farmer. The success of this Society means for him a higher place in our social life, and last, but not least, school books and an education for his children.

Sir, you are at liberty and it is my desire, that you give this communication and the sub-joined official report of our membership, the widest circulation possible. I do this at my own instance but know that my views are fully shared by the State officials and Board of Directors of the Society. I am, Sir, very respectfully

Very respectfully,
C. M. BARNETT.

National President American Society of Equity.

A FRENCH HERCULES.

Marvelous Strength of the Father of Alexandre Dumas.

My father was twenty-four at the time of enlisting and as handsome a young fellow as could be found anywhere.

His free colonial life had developed his strength and prowess to an extraordinary degree. He was a veritable American horse lad, a cowboy. His skill with gun and pistol was the envy of St. Georges and Junot, and his muscular strength became a proverb in the army. More than once he amused himself in the riding school by passing under a beam, grasping it with his arms and lifting his horse between his legs. I have seen him do it, and I recollect my childish amusement when I saw him carry two men standing upon his bent knee and hop across the room with these two men on him. I saw him once in a rage take a branch of considerable toughness in both his hands and break it between them by turning one hand to the right and the other to the left.

A few years later the gallant hussar was a brigadier general and performing feats of valor which earned him the title of "the Horatius Cocles of the Tyrol." Best of all we like the son's description of Horatius' storming of Mont Cenis:

The climbers reached the plateau. Although it was a dark night, the long line of soldiers, clothed in blue uniforms, could have been perceived outlined against the snow from the fort. But my father had foreseen this contingency; each man had a cotton cap and a shirt rolled up in his knapsack. This was the ordinary dress my father adopted at night when he hunted chamois.

They reached the foot of the palisades without having roused a single challenge. The men began climbing the palisades as soon as they reached them; but, thanks to my father's herculean strength, he thought of a better and quieter way—namely, to take each man by the seat of his trousers and the collar of his coat and throw him over the palisades. The snow would break the fall and also deaden the noise. Surprised out of their sleep and seeing the French soldiers in their midst without knowing how they had come there, the Piedmontese hardly offered any resistance. — From "My Memoirs," by Alexandre Dumas, Translated by E. M. Waller.

OLD TIME SURGERY.

The Barbarous Methods of the Sixteenth Century.

Ambrose Pare, a barber surgeon of the sixteenth century, tells in his notes how in 1537 he went to the long wars to get practice in surgery. He invented some new processes, particularly in the treatment of amputated limbs.

Up to Pare's time the most barbarous means had been used to stop the bleeding. In his own words: "So soon as the limb was removed the surgeons would use many cauteries to stop the flow of blood, a thing very horrible and cruel in the mere telling. And truly of six thus cruelly treated scarce two ever escaped, and even these were long ill, and the wounds thus burned were slow to heal, because the burning caused such vehement pains that they fell into fever, convulsions and other mortal accidents. In most of them, moreover, when the scar fell off there came fresh bleeding, which must again be stanching with the cauteries. So that for many healing was impossible, and they had an ulcer to the end of their lives, which prevented them from having an artificial limb."

The idea of abolishing such cruelty by using the ligature occurred to Pare in one of his war journeys, and his success went beyond his own expectations. His other discovery was made within a few hours of his joining the army. It was believed by the surgeons of the day that there was poison in a gunshot wound, and one of the accepted authorities insisted that they must be cauterized "with oil of elders scalding hot, mixed with a little treacle." The pain was intolerable. It happened that at his first treatment of gunshot wounds Pare's oil ran short, and he used instead "a digestive made of the yolks of eggs, oil of roses and turpentine." To his surprise he found next morning that the patients he had thus treated were in better condition than the others. "Then I resolved never more to burn thus cruelly poor men with gunshot wounds."

Newton's Fearful Crime.

At the end of a meal at Haydon's house Keats proposed a toast in these terms: "Dishonor to the memory of Newton."

The guests stared at him in questioning surprise, and Wordsworth asked for an explanation.

"It is," answered Keats, "because he destroyed the poetry of the rainbow by reducing it to a prism." And the artists all drank, with one consent, confusion to the savant.

A Great Change.

Old Nurse (to young lady who is going to New Zealand)—So you're going away to one of the countries, Miss Mary, where they have day when we have night and night when we have day?

Miss Mary—Yes, nurse.

Old Nurse—Eh, it will take ye some time to get accustomed to the change! —London Punch's Almanac.

Quite Familiar.

"Jimmie," said the merchant solemnly at the eleventh hour, "we have forgotten to get a fresh supply of stamps." And the office boy in his excitement responded with "Goodness, sir, so we have! If we ain't a couple of blunder headed idiots!" —London Tit-Bits.

Little Mamie Rose Rose.

"It doesn't take these little Russian children long to catch on to things in this country," remarked a teacher of the Educational alliance. "When one explains a word to them they never forget it, and they are always ready with an illustration of its meaning too. I remember that some time ago I had explained to the class the meaning of the word 'ambiguity,' and then, as the custom is, I turned about and made them explain the word to me."

"Now, is there any one," I asked, "who can give me an illustration?"

"A grimy little urchin at the back of the room stuck up his hand."

"Here's a ambiguity for ye," he cried. "Little Mamie Rose sat on a tack—little Mamie Rose. See?"

"Oh, no," concluded the teacher, "you don't have to explain a thing to the east side child twice." —New York Sun.

The Lady and Her Dog.

There are any number of men who would ask who you were talking to if you hinted that they were not absolute masters in their own establishments, yet these very men are often the slaves of their dogs. By the way, unless you really want to make her your sworn foe, don't, whatever else you may say or do, speak disparagingly of a lady's dog, even if it is the most unholly mongrel that ever wagged a tail.—Fry's Magazine.

What We Want Daily.

Protein to make blood and muscle, bone and brain, and corresponding quantities of fat, starch and sugar and the like to be consumed in the body to serve as a fuel to provide warmth and give strength for the body. The protein is found in lean meats, fish, eggs, cheese, gluten of flour and in beans and peas and the like.—London Answers.

British English.

Englishman—I say, ye know, what's the bookage to Boston? Railroad Ticket Clerk—The whatage? Englishman—The bookage, ye know—the tariff. What's the tariff? Ticket Clerk—I haven't time to talk politics. — New York Weekly.

The success of a movement depends much less upon the force of its argument or upon the ability of its advocates than the predisposition of society to receive it.—Lecky.

Accomplished.

Mr. Goodlie—My boy, you'd never hear me use language like that! The Kid—I bet you don't! Why, it took me five years to learn all dem words.—Sketch.

A Dark Secret.

Wanted—The name of the man who first made the welkin ring.—Detroit News.

In Loving Remembrance.

Of my dear mother who died March 17, 1908.

Weep not that her toils are over,
Weep not that her race is run,
God grant we may rest as calmly,
When our work, like hers, is done.
Till then we give with gladness,
Our mother to Him to keep.

Peaceful be thy slumbers,
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou, no more to join our number,
You no more our sorrows know.
But dear mother we hope to meet you
Where no farewell tears are shed.

Call not back our dear mother,
Anchored safe where storms are O'er,

On the border land we left her,
Soon to meet and part no more.
We shall find our loving mother
In our Fathers Mansion fair.

Her gentle voice now is hushed,
Thy warm loving heart is still,
Thy hands are clasped upon thy breast
We have kissed your lovely brow,
And in our aching heart we know
We have no mother now.

JAMES R. FELIX.
